The old-style crested summer dress may continue to be worn.

School Uniform and Appearance Code (Years 7 – 11)

The Uniform and Appearance Code has been drawn up through extensive consultation with students, staff, and parents. Their views have helped shape a clear whole-school approach to uniform and appearance which aims to be fair, inclusive, reasonable, and transparent. The justification for each aspect of the code was considered, paying due attention to wellbeing and inclusivity.

This guidance on uniform and appearance has been written with reference to the Department for Education Guidance on School Uniform, updated in 2021, and also the Department for Education Statutory Guidance on the Cost of School Uniforms, published in 2021. The requirements of the Human Rights Act 1998, the Equality Act 2010 and the guidance provided by the Halo Code for Afro-textured hair have been taken into account and consideration has been given to the impact of the policy on pupils who share a protected characteristic, in particular:

- religion or belief
- race (including colour, nationality, ethnic or national origin)
- disability
- gender

Guiding principles

- For uniform and appearance to be inclusive, smart, professional, affordable, comfortable and practical/safe.
- For as many students as possible to enjoy wearing their uniform and feel a sense of belonging and pride
- For the School Uniform and Appearance Code to have minimal impact on how students express their individuality outside of school
- To minimise both peer pressure and the pressure to follow particular fashion trends whilst at school
- To be transparent about the code and any procedures adopted for those who find it hard to conform, so the code is implemented in a consistent way that is fair to all.

Students should arrive at school daily, looking smart in their appearance and wearing full uniform, unless a formal exemption has been made e.g. for a school trip. The Head may grant exceptions from any part of the uniform code but in most instances, this will relate to instances of religious observance or medical need. All uniform, games kit and personal possessions must be clearly marked with the owner's name.
